Basic Slag in Mixture

Cumberland County: "I undertook to mix basic slag and acid phosphate last year. It became heated and rapidly hardened. This year I intend to mix basic slag and muriatic acid phosphate, and wish to know if this mixture will be safe. How much should I use with corn?" The mixing of the basic slag with acid phosphate caused the phosphoric acid in the acid phosphate to react to a less soluble form and there must have been some free acid in the acid phosphate, with which the lime combined and made the heating and probably the change to plaster of Paris. You can mix the slag with muriatic acid phosphate without any harm being done. If you want, as you say, 10 per cent of potash, mix 1,500 pounds of the slag with 100 pounds of muriatic acid phosphate, and you can use 400 pounds broadcast on corn if you have clover or a sod to turn for the corn.

Cowpeas, Soy Beans and Alfalfa. Halifax County: "You have probably written often about what I am asking, but my clippings from The Times-Dispatch have been misplaced. I want to sow about ten acres in peas this spring about the 1st of April. What is the best pea to sow? Also the best method of curing. If I remember correctly, you advised hauling them up the day they were cut and store in the barn. My idea now is to put in small racks and sow, and then in stacks for winter feeding. Have been thinking of sowing half and half peas and soy beans. On a lot of two acres I wish to experiment with alfalfa. This land has been used as a pasture, sowed with a mixture of grasses. In 1911 it was sown to peas, followed by wheat, and then corn. Between fifteen and twenty bushels an acre. Last fall sowed in red clover, and have a poor stand. Will sow peas after cutting the clover, cut the peas and plow and lime heavily and sow alfalfa. Where can I get lime; how much, and what fertilizer to use? What is the best fertilizer to use in sowing peas in my orchard, which has been cultivated for three years, and is growing up in broomrape and needs fertilizing. I read your article with great interest and consider them very valuable. I am trying to improve their farming, and have never advised the cutting and hauling of pea vines hay the same day it is cut. I shall, at the proper time, repeat my plan for curing pea hay. If done now, you would mislead it and forget it as you have now. It will be all right to sow peas and soy beans in equal amount. You can get the lime from the parties delivering in The Times-Dispatch. On the alfalfa you will need two tons of ground limestone or one ton of slaked burnt lime an acre. Then after the mowing and harrowing in the lime, apply 400 pounds of acid phosphate and 100 pounds of muriatic acid phosphate an acre. For the peas in the orchard, use 400 pounds of fertilizer that will run about 4-5-10, and use 400 pounds an acre.

Velvet Beans in Corn. "I have some land in fairly good condition which I will plant in corn. I want to plant velvet beans in the corn. Should I plant them at same time as the corn to follow with wheat in the fall? Velvet beans will not mature in my present section. Planted at same time with the corn, they will certainly grow till, by fall, you will hardly be able to find the corn. You can sow cowpeas in the corn at last working, but you had better get the velvet beans out of the corn. In fact, you are too far north for them to make good hay, as they would hardly get in bloom before late September if planted in April.

Potatoes After Peas. Augusta County: "I have been reading your columns in The Times-Dispatch since last May, and find them helpful, especially your mode of making pea vine hay. I like to read after a man who has had some experience in the field. I have a piece of land that I have planted for two years, and the last cut was left on the land and the land planted to cowpeas last summer, which were made into hay. It is a gray silty soil, and I want to plant it in potatoes, and have already covered most of it with manure. Would you also shall I do? If you have read these columns with care you will have seen the formula I have given more than once for a fertilizer for Irish potatoes. This formula is used largely by the larger growers of early potatoes in Eastern North Carolina and Virginia at rate of 1,000 to 1,500 pounds an acre in the furrows. Land treated as yours has been and manured over will not need so heavy an application, and for your section I would say that 500 pounds an acre will suffice. I will give the formula once more, and hope that all who are about to plant potatoes will heed it: 500 pounds acid phosphate, 100 pounds nitrate of soda, 500 pounds of tankage or cottonseed meal, 400 pounds of muriatic acid phosphate to make a ton.

Vetch, Clover and Potatoes. "Last fall I sowed a large part of my land in vetch and crimson clover, which I wish to turn under for corn and peas. I used 400 pounds an acre of 16 per cent acid phosphate on the vetch and clover. Will I need to use more on the corn? I intend to plant main late crop of potatoes, using the Green Mountain potato, which seems to suit our climate. I have been told that our climate does not suit Irish potatoes except the early crop, but our fathers raised fine ones and we have the same climate, but perhaps a changed soil, and I want to make a good late crop, for the local market, but all the same, they are good eating. Plant in deep furrows and use about 500 pounds of a high-grade fertilizer an acre. Cover lightly at first, and work the soil to them as they grow, and cultivate perfectly level, for at this season of the year it is important to conserve the moisture, and we get the potatoes deep in the ground and do not hill up as we do the early crop.

Everbearing Strawberries. "What is the matter with my everbearing strawberries? They never mature, but simply get about half grown and dry up. They bloom all summer, but I can get no fruit. I have larger unless near another variety. You have about told the reason. You do not say what variety of the Everbearing strawberry you have, but it is evident that it is not the best. Here the Superb fertilizes its own fruit very well. An ordinary staminate variety will only affect the berries in the spring and you need an everbearing sort to do the work.

Peanut Vines. Brunswick County: "What is the value of peanut vines per bushel, or let me know how I can give my half share man what is right for half of the vines? The peanut vines, properly cured, should be worth as much as clover hay, and that would be a good amount. You can get the lime from the parties delivering in The Times-Dispatch. On the alfalfa you will need two tons of ground limestone or one ton of slaked burnt lime an acre. Then after the mowing and harrowing in the lime, apply 400 pounds of acid phosphate and 100 pounds of muriatic acid phosphate an acre. For the peas in the orchard, use 400 pounds of fertilizer that will run about 4-5-10, and use 400 pounds an acre.

FACE BROKE OUT IN BLISTERS

Spread All Up in Hair. Would Scratch Face and Tear Pieces Out. Ear Almost Came Off. One Cake Cuticura Soap and One Box Cuticura Ointment Cured.

Bartonsville, Ky.—"When our little girl was three months old her face broke out in little white blisters. They spread all up in her hair and behind her ear and she would scratch her face and tear pieces out of it. The blood would run off her face and her ear almost came off. She was fretful when she awoke. "We used — and a wash but they did not do any good. We heard of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and tried a sample and it began to heal so we got some from the drugist. We would wash the child's face with Cuticura Soap and water and then put on the Cuticura Ointment. After we had used one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment the eczema was cured." (Signed) Mrs. Sue Woods, Aug. 7, 1913.

CAROLINA AGGIES VERY CLOSE GAME

Chapel Hill, N. C., March 26.—In its second game of the season, Carolina won from William and Mary College of Williamsburg, Va., here this afternoon, score 1 to 0. Carolina introduced a freshman twirler, Leon Shields, of Halifax County, whose creditable exhibition was the single redeeming feature of the contest. He not only acquitted himself creditably on the mound, fanning eight men, but landed two safe hits out of three times to the bat.
